Shorty's bodyguards were always ready for action

SA MODEL'S SOFT HEART SCORES A DIAMOND DEAL!

Sure, Nicola Breytenbach's spent more time overseas than at home in SA. But we're still claiming the Donald Trump-signed model as one of our own, especially now that she's been brought on as the Diamond Empowerment Fund's first African Angel!

It's kind of like being a Victoria's Secret Angel... Except the ambassadors are chosen for their "compassionate nature and commitment to change the world" instead of their ability to wear smaller-than-size-zero clothing. Also, instead of walking around in knickers, the African Angels get to be near diamonds!

The aim of the DEF is to "help Africa help Africa" by providing education throughout the continent. And having celebs as ambassadors will help raise awareness for the fund and its work.

"I felt that I had finally found an organisation that I could put my heart, celebrity status and enthusiasm behind. It's a cause I truly believe in," says Nicola. We'd also believe in something with "diamonds" in the name...
