SCENT-SATIONAL
ALL eyes were on NICOLA BREYTENBACH at the 12th annual SA Style Awards at Nelson Mandela Square in Sandton. The SA-born model, who was guest of honour at the fancy do, stole the show in three Marc Bouwer dresses – one for the red carpet, one for the ceremony and one for the afterparty at FTV. The newly married beauty was also in the country to promote her self-titled perfume. "We were due to release it this year but with the state of the economy things are taking a little longer," Nicola said.
 The bash was also attended by Lira, a former winner. Fans can look out for the singer's new album, Soul in Mind, released this week. "It's my best work yet but we'll see what people think of it," she said. — JARRED ORLIN & GILDA VAN SCHALKWYK
